JOSEPH CHARBEL • TRICON GROUP

What convinced us that the system was right for us was the single rebate system and the injected epoxy liner that happens behind the wall. None of the moisture would actually come through to the surface and then need to be dealt with - it was all being dealt with behind the wall. This enabled us to have a dry, mould free and clean air basement for our patrons. During construction we were able to have trades working down here without the fear of water interfering with their work. We were able to interface all of the construction around that basement process and get everything lifted through the building knowing that no water was going to penetrate into our basement. The Dincel Waterproof System Warranty gives us peace of mind with the up to 50 year warranty. It's transferrable to different owners throughout the life of the build and understanding that they can deal direct with Dincel was a major asset for us to be able to use this system in our basement.
